HOSTILE CROWD SHOUTS ANGRY JIBE AT PRINCE

"You've Got Motors And We're Starving."

MOB CHARGE BROKEN.

London, To-day.
The "booming" section of a crowd and cries of "you've got motors and we're starving," which soon drowned the general cheering, greeted the arrival of Prince George at Poplar last evening to open the new wing of the Seamen's Rest.

Before the arrival of the Prince a number of unemployed, pushed the building but were ejected and three arrests were made.

Communist influences appear to be more and more strongly felt and agitation and mob scenes are proving a worry to the authorities and to the property-holder. Looting, as in the rioting of Tuesday, may be expected if crowds of demonstrators get out of hand. — Reuter.

LUTHER SUPPORTS GERMAN CABINET ECONOMIC PLANS

Must Curb Imports To Save Market.

CHANGES HIS ATTITUDE.

Berlin, To-day.
"A strong home market which guarantees the nation's food supply can alone form a solid basis for Germany's foreign trade," declared Doctor Luther, President of the Reichsbank, in a speech at the Overseas Club, supporting the Government's economic programme.

He said the Government was forced to resort to a plan for restricting agricultural imports owing to the trade measures of foreign countries, with whom the initiative now lay in regard to the removal of barriers to free exchange of goods.

This only was the means whereby the enormous disparity between the economic position of creditor and debtor countries could be balanced or reduced to a reasonable level.

He hoped the voluntary conversion loans of other countries would open up the possibilities of reduction of Germany's heavy burden of interest on foreign loans.

A week ago Doctor Luther condemned agricultural import duties as a death-blow to Germany's credit abroad and a heavy punishment for the German mark. — Reuter.

EUROPE'S ROYAL BLOOD AT UNION OF GREAT HOUSES.

Princess of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha
Weds Swedish Prince.

Coburg, To-day.
Europe's royal families thronged here to-day at the culmination of the romance of Princess Sibylla of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha and Prince Gustav Adolf, son of the Crown Prince of Sweden.

The bridal pair are great-grandchildren of Queen Victoria.

There were sixty-seven members of European royal families, including four from England.

The ceremony was colourful in the extreme. The romantic atmosphere of the occasion lent to its attractiveness. — Reuter.

Police Fled On Woman's Murder

British Consul's Sharp
Note At Harbin.

Harbin, To-day.

The British Consul-General, Mr. C. F. Garstin, to-day called on the Chief of Police, General Chin Jung-kui, and handed over a copy of the British inquest finding on the murder of Mrs. Woodruff, and personally translated paragraphs showing that the police were guilty of gross dereliction of duty, as the evidence submitted proves that several Chinese police, in the vicinity of the hold-up and murder, fed helter-skelter and hid in near-by garages and shops.

Summing up, the final paragraph of the finding reads that the British authorities trust that the Chief of Police will give serious attention to the fact that at no time from the beginning of the outrage to its culmination in the murder of Mrs. Woodruff and the capture of one of the four bandits, did the police make any attempt whatever to apprehend the bandits on rescue the victims.

The Japanese Command, interviewed by Reuter, issued a statement that the police reorganisation to bring about a more efficient force, must be completed immediately, and that the activities of kidnappers must cease. — Reuter.

M.C.C. SCORE 77 FOR ONE WICKET.

Leyland Dismissed At Perth For 15.

Perth, To-day.

The M.C.C. cricket team, which arrived at Fremantle on Wednesday, participated in their first match of the tour here yesterday when they played against a team of West Australian cricketers.

At the luncheon interval the M.C.C. had scored 77 for the loss of one wicket. Maurice Leyland having been dismissed for 15. The wicket was of the tricky kind after a previous rain shower the weather was fine when the commenced. — Reuter.

PREMIER PLANS TO LEAD EUROPE TO DISARMAMENT

Great Deputations
Plead For Peace.

CHURCH BEARS A HAND.

London, To-day.
The possibility of Premier Ramsay MacDonald shortly accompanying Sir John Simon to Geneva in order "to get a general and a better understanding amongst the nations of Europe," is mentioned in well-informed circles.

The Premier has received a large and representative deputation of the British Churches, headed by the Archbishop of Canterbury and York, and leaders of other Churches, at the Foreign Office where they urged the speeding up of the work of the Disarmament Conference. The Archbishop of Canterbury hoped to see the restriction or prohibition of tanks, big guns, submarines, military aircraft, and warships of over 10,000 tons, he said, and also urged the closest co-operation with America.

Sir John Simon who was present, replied sympathetically and recalled the motion for qualitative disarmament, which originated with the British Delegation to the Conference.

Mr. MacDonald, in a brief address, declared it would take a moral catastrophe to separate Britain from America in the matter of understanding regarding disarmament. They were trying to effect a similar state of affairs in Europe. — Reuter.

The Archbishop's Plea.
The Prime Minister and Sir John Simon received the delegations in the Locarno Room at the Foreign Office. The deputation represented established and non-conformist churches desirous of assuring the Government of unreserved support in all efforts to obtain a substantial measure of international disarmament.

ARCHITECT FINED FOR SPEEDING.

Mr. E. G. S. Dale Drove Without Lights.

NATHAN ROAD INCIDENT.

Mr. E. G. S. Dale, architect of Messrs. Leigh and Orange, appeared before Mr. Butters in the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, to answer four counts in connection with dangerous driving in his car, on October 4 last.

Defendant was accused of dangerous driving, driving without headlights switched on, failing to notify change of ownership of the car and failing to stop when called upon by Traffic Sergeant L. C. Pennell in Nathan Road.

It was stated by the prosecution that Mr. Dale drove at a speed of about 30 miles an hour in Nathan Road, where part of the thoroughfare is under repair near the junction of Prince Edward Road. Defendant was behind a motor bus when he suddenly swerved out to the extreme right of the road. Another bus was approaching in the opposite direction. The headlights of the car were off.

Defendant admitted the charges, but in connection with the charge of failing to stop when called upon, he stated that he was proceeding in the direction of the Nathan Road Police Station at the time he was called upon to stop. — Reuter.

BRITAIN STILL FREE IN WORLD MARKET

OTTAWA AGREEMENTS
RATIFIED

FREE TRADERS WAX BITTER

LONDON, TO-DAY.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS TO-DAY APPROVED THE OTTAWA AGREEMENTS ON A DIVISION VOTE OF 451 TO 84. BY ADOPTION OF THE NECESSARY FINANCIAL RESOLUTION. THE CLOSING STAGES OF THE DEBATE WERE MARKED BY A SPIRITED ONSLAUGHT OF FREE TRADERS, THE EX-MINISTER OF THE LABOUR GOVERNMENT, MR. ARTHUR GREENWOOD, ASSERTING THAT BRITAIN HAD ALLOWED HERSELF TO BE BLACKMAILED BY THE DOMINIONS INTO THE BARGAIN.

Labourites denounced the abrogation of the Russian trade agreement at the moment when the Soviet Government was negotiating for orders worth $500,000 in heavy engineering goods with Leeds.

Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, in reply, indicated that negotiations were shortly to begin for a new Anglo-Russian trade treaty with a view to securing a better proportion of orders from Russia than previously.

When the debate in the House of Commons was resumed yesterday on the financial resolutions to give effect to the Ottawa Agreements, the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, dealt with the contention put forward by Sir Herbert Samuel that it was unconstitutional for the executive body to bind the Commons in negotiating commercial treaties involving taxation for more than twelve months.

He cited instances to show there was nothing new in undertaking a treaty which bound Parliament for a number of years with regard to duties which

Indecent Assault On Young Girl Alleged.

REMAND TO TO-MORROW.

A case of an alleged indecent assault on a Chinese girl, aged 18, on Island Road, Shamshui district, yesterday, was brought before Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court this morning, when Henry H. Drai, 31, a native of Switzerland, appeared on the grave charge.

Accused, described as a motor engineer, employed at 455, Lockhart Road, Wan-chai, was charged with having carnal knowledge of the girl, Cheung Wan, without her consent.

The girl, on whom the assault was alleged to have been made, was present in Court. Her hair was cut in "bobbed" style, and she wore an orange and white striped gown. She is pretty and very grave.

Urm did not speak when the charge was read to him by His Worship. Detective Inspector W. Shannon, who has charge of the case for the Police, asked for a remand to to-morrow.

SIR JOHN SIMON

might be imposed upon particular kinds of goods. If such matters were to be opened to review every six or twelve months they would be creating a paradise for those who indulged in lobbying on behalf of particular interests.

Sir John Simon stated it was absolutely untrue that the Ottawa Agreements precluded Britain from bargaining successfully with foreign countries. Since the recent changes in the tariff policy had been made, the Foreign Office had been visited to "an unusual extent by representatives of different countries desiring to negotiate on trade matters."

He recalled the unavailing efforts of the late William Graham to promote international tariffs, and said they failed because Britain then had nothing with which to negotiate. As a result of the Ottawa Agreement, Britain now had opportunity such as she never had before of making with other countries. — British Wireless Service.

Believed On Way To Germany.

Mr. Wang Ching-wei, the former President of the Executive Yuan, whom Mr. Sai To succeeds, will arrive in Hong Kong from Shanghai on Tuesday next on board the a.s. Andre Labou. Although the news is somewhat uncertain, it is believed that he will visit the Colony after a brief stay in Hong Kong.

EUROPEAN POLICE OFFICER FACES BRIBERY CHARGE

Acting Sub-Inspector
Waller Arrested.

ALLEGED ACCEPTANCE OF $50.

Acting Sub-Inspector H. Waller, attached to Tai Po Police Station, was arrested this week and charged on Wednesday morning with accepting a bribe of $50. After the charge had been laid the case was adjourned until October 26, and will be heard in the Tai Po Police Court at 10.30 a.m. A. S. I. Waller is out on $500 bail.

The accused man joined the Hong Kong Police Force on January 18, 1921, coming out from England with a batch of other recruits. He was promoted to Acting Sub-Inspector on May 25, 1929, and in December, 1930 went home on leave. He returned to the Colony in September, 1931, was stationed for a time at the Water Police Station. He went to Tai Po on March 26.

Lord Howard On Grave Charge

Manslaughter Count
Follows Inquest.

London, To-day.

The sequel to the finding of the corpse of a man, George Hawke, on the road near Henley on October 10, a jury at the inquest at Henley to-day brought in a verdict that Hawke was killed by a car driven by Lord Howard of Effingham, who was criminally negligent.

Lord Howard has been committed for trial on a manslaughter count.

Lord Howard is 27 years of age, the son of the fifth Earl of Effingham. — Reuter.

CANTON'S NEW INDUSTRY PLAN NOW OPERATES

Government Approves
Social Reforms.

SLAVES TO BE FREED.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Canton To-day.
A five-year industrial plan has been conceived by Mr. Lim Wan-kai, chairman of Kwangtung Provinces and Commissioner of Construction, and approved by him. It is, in fact, the early stages of its operation. It embraces plans for the development of industry on a large scale, and includes provision for the erection of factories for the manufacture of caustic soda, bleaching powder, an industrial chemistry experimental plant, sulphuric acid factory, salt refinery, fertilizer factory, distillery, and other projects.

At the same time the Canton Government has ordered that the mul-tai system shall be abolished in this respect following the lead set them by Hong Kong. The slaves are to be free to leave their owners but may accept employment at regular wages if they wish. Better conditions have been stipulated for the Canton slaves, and they may be married to their own kind.

MRS. PAWLEY MR. CORKRAN AT YINGCHOW

Dirty, Cut Were Well Treated.

FEARS FOR HER CAPTORS.

Newchwang, Today.
Mrs. Muriel Pawley and Mr. Charles Corkran arrived here safely at 10.30 o'clock on the night of October 20, and were handed over by Captain Kawahito to the British Consul at Yingchow Station. Both the captives are well, but dirty and war-morous. They apparently thrived during their captivity, for they have both increased in weight, reporting that they were well-treated throughout by the bandits, who had the mentality of children. They were fed with the best food obtainable, chickens, eggs, Chinese brown sugar, pancakes and macaroni.

Their handing-over by the bandits to the Japanese military authorities was effected at the village of Tapan, 25 li north-east of Pan-han, rainy weather delaying their return. It is reported that Japanese troops are advancing to the south in operations to clear the district of bandits. The west bank of the Liao River, being guarded by a Japanese force of 700 reformed bandits, is expected that the Japanese force of 160 men will ultimately be obliged to surrender, although there was a friendly parting with Mrs. Pawley with statements being made that no animosity would be shown towards the bandits, and that the latter should visit Dr. Phillips, her father, for (Continued on Page 12.)

BRITAIN AND GOLD.

London, To-day.
At the Bankers' dinner at the Mansion House last night Sir E. Hilton Young declared that the pound had proved itself more stable than gold, and the price fall had been less severe in the Great Britain than in the gold countries.

A return to gold would be possible only when it was made clear that the gold standard would be worked properly, and the conditions set out in the Ottawa resolutions satisfied.

Mr. Montagu Norman said that one of the great things which we, speaking technically, wished to dispose of were frozen credits throughout Europe. There was nothing which impeded business and the prospects of bankers to the same extent as those frozen credits.

He referred to the class of banker, whose business lay largely overseas, who had been generous lenders on short credit overseas, acting each for himself without co-operation or any knowledge by one of what the others were doing. The result had been in many instances that concerns had been established on borrow on short credit, and which had the various banks been aware of would have been sent out of the window.

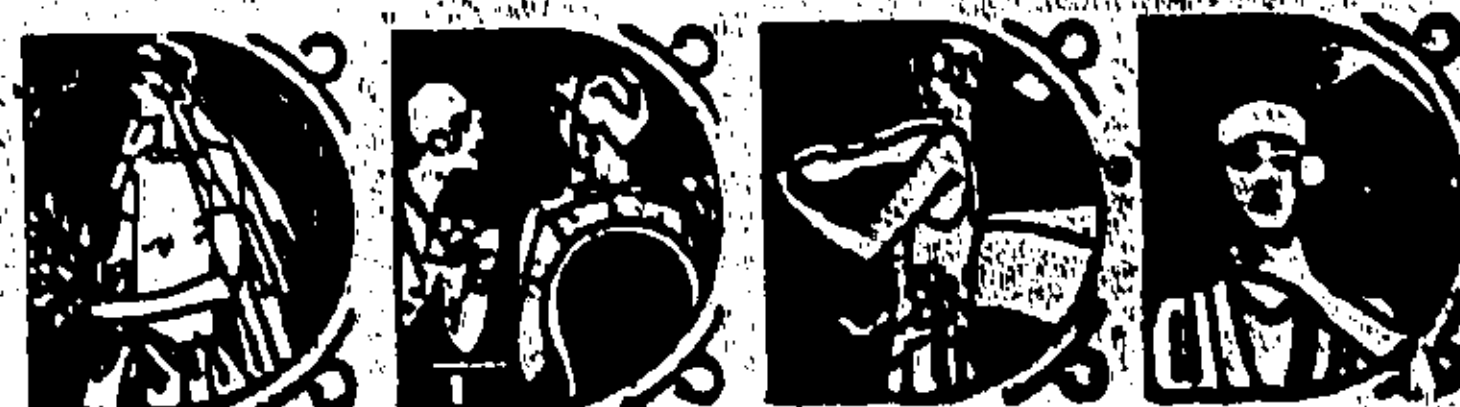

He said that the banks were now aware of the situation, and that they were now co-operating with one another, and that the result had been in many instances that concerns had been established on borrow on short credit, and which had the various banks been aware of would have been sent out of the window.

COOKING SECRETS REVEALED.

Cold Water And Slow Boiling.

When a food is placed in cold water and slowly allowed to come to a boil it increases the total time required for cooking, and hence increases the amount of colour, flavour and nutritive elements that will be dissolved out. The better cooking process, therefore, is to place the vegetables in boiling water. This is especially important in the case of cabbage, cauliflower, string beans, green peas, spinach and other leafy vegetables. In the case of root vegetables cooked whole, and especially if they are to be skinned afterward as in the case of potatoes with the jackets on, starting them in the cold water is no appreciable disadvantage.

The only type of cooking in which there is a distinct advantage in starting the food in cold water or cooking it at lower than boiling temperatures is when soups or stews are to be made in which case it is desirable to dissolve out the flavour and nutrients into the cooking liquor.

MANAGING HUSBANDS A FINE SCIENCE.

Women Should Learn Lesson At School.

SOME HARD PROBLEMS.

"All men are inherently vain," says Mrs. Penrose Lyly. That's the nature of the "beast." By the time a girl leaves high school she should know all about this emotional trait in men.

Then, when she comes to marry, she will have learned how to accept this difficult trait in her husband, how to use it to keep life pleasant, or else perhaps will have found out how to ignore it. That is the experienced opinion of Paul Popenoe, director of the Institute of Family Relations.

"It is part of the school's job to educate young people for successful marriage," Dr. Popenoe says. "Every young man and woman should have opportunity while still in school to know well at least 50 of the opposite sex."

"The school must make an active and normal social life possible. Too often just the boy or girl who needs to learn about the opposite sex is too bashful to make social contacts. The high school must help him or her through to a good working knowledge of the normal sex behaviour of men and women."

Dr. Popenoe thinks that parents are very willing to give over to schools the task of educating children for marriage.

"The break-up of the old-fashioned home, where there were many children and many neighbours, has thrown social guidance upon factors outside the home," he believes.

"Most parents who consult our Institute want their sons and daughters to know that the emotional life of women is far more variable than that of men. But because this fact involves certain physiological considerations, the parents feel embarrassed when called upon to discuss it with their children."

"But they are eager for us to do it for them. In fact, they expect educators to tell their sons and daughters all the basic principles that underlie robust and happy married life."

The Institute of Family Relations was started in Los Angeles in 1930. Its main purpose is to give premarital information and advice to young people about to marry.

Although the major purpose of the institute is to prepare young men and women to be husbands and wives, a great many married persons have consulted the members of the staff.

"Women almost enjoy discussing with us the emotional distress their husbands cause them," says Dr. Popenoe. "They will tell everything they know or think about it. But the husbands, when they come to talk over their problems, are reticent at first. Even when they do come to discuss the problem, they are honest, but not loquacious."

When a woman wants to divorce her husband because he won't spend Sunday morning cleaning the family automobile, you may be certain the real trouble lies not with the dirty car, but with a deep emotional maladjustment between

An Archaeologist At Her Work

Many Visit "Diggings" In Hertfordshire.

WHAT WOMEN ARE DOING.

Many motorists in Hertfordshire have deviated from their journey to stop to see Mrs. Mortimer Wheeler, one of the few women archaeologists at work. She has just restarted excavating on the site of Verulamium, near St. Albans, and has made some interesting discoveries.

Wearing a neat brown tweed coat and skirt, white shirt-blouse and tie, with high wellington boots, she was directing operations in the middle of a field recently.

Mrs. Wheeler's archaeological work began with her marriage to Dr. Mortimer Wheeler; before then she was a student of history under Professor Pollard at University College. Since her marriage, Mrs. Wheeler has helped her husband with excavations at Carnarvon, Brecon, several sites in Ely, and Caerleon, where they excavated the amphitheatres.

One of the most perfect discoveries in the present excavations at Verulamium was a pavement bordered in Greek key design in the centre of which was the head of a sea-god from whose tressed hair project two lobster wings. Only a day or so ago she discovered a Roman bathroom with a beautiful mosaic pavement. The heating system is still intact.

Wonderful Needlework.
One of the most amazing specimens of modern needlework is the bed and canopy now on view in the needlework section in the Victoria and Albert Museum. It is the work of Mrs. Randall Wells, wife of the well known architect.

She has embroidered and painted some rich heavy ivory silk in a floral design to cover entirely the head and foot of a pair of twin beds. These are destined for the Elizabethan home, Wardington Manor, Banbury, Oxfordshire, which is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Beaumont Pease.

Mrs. Randall Wells has made also an exquisite bedspread of the same material, a set of curtains and hangings to fit a kidney shaped dressing table, all of which are fully frilled and richly embroidered in the same floral and bird design, as that upon the beds.

Mrs. Randall Wells and her husband have also decorated the ceiling and the entire walls of the entrance hall of Wardington Manor with plaster work.

HUMMING BIRD COLOURS.

A designer named Dielman has made an entire collection of sports clothes for Fall based on humming bird colours. Dear, dear, mother's always told you that romance had not flown out the window. There's the ruby-throated humming bird, the black-chinned humming bird, white-eared humming bird, broad-billed humming bird, buff-bellied humming bird and the bluethead humming bird, all of which have contributed inspiration for the swellest shades of greens, blues, reds and hennas you ever saw which combine perfectly with white Angora knitted trimmings.

TALKIE TALKS

by Diana

GERTRUDE LAWRENCE GOOD IN "AREN'T WE ALL?"

"THE LOST SQUADRON" HAS MANY AIR THRILLS.

"Red-Headed Woman" Due At The Queen's.

"The Frightened Lady" by the late Edgar Wallace... Press reports to hand say he never wrote a more gripping play, one which holds your interest and leaves you guessing at the end. Catherine Nesbitt and Gordon Harker are from the original stage version. Harker is a most amusing natural-born Cockney—He started his theatrical career as prompter with Fred Terry's Co. Now he holds a position in British films which is second to none. Miss Nesbitt also is well known for stage work. Belle Chrystal, whom we liked so much in "Hindle Wakes" has a fine dramatic chance. Evelyn Williams as Viscountess Lebanon, round whom the story revolves, the late Norman McKinnell and others will amuse and thrill local audiences. (Queen's).

"My Sin."

Tallulah Bankhead, who was a sensation for eight years on the London stage is now stepping out in dazzling style in the talkies. In "My Sin," she is a sympathetic figure, and we, who admire her technique will certainly admit that, this, her second talkie, far outclasses her first venture. Then, too, we have Fredric March giving his usual finished performance, as the derelict lawyer who defends the heroine in Court, and is regenerated. I love the husky voice of the Lady from Virginia, her drooping eyes hold an appeal—yes, you can well see why London adored this actress. Don't miss this one, although the story is as old as the hills. The direction is smooth, and the acting from the whole cast worthy of the stars. (King's).

Films For Star.

Two British films with Herbert Mundin who used to be a London Revue favourite (and will be remembered in the recent "Devil's Lottery," as the valet) is the star in this production, with Dorothy Bartlam. This little girl, who has worked her way from ballet dancer to leading roles, has over fifty films to her credit. This play gives us ghosts, gasps and gaiety, with Mundin handing out some laughs. Then, in the double Bill we have a spy drama, "Midnight" with lovely Eve Grey. I saw her in her first appearance with Evelyn Laye in "Madame Pompadour." She is now a successful film star. John Stuart is one of the most popular of British film actors, was last seen here in "Atlantic." There is a novel twist to the finish of this story.

Norma Shearer and Lionel Barrymore in "Free Soul" follow this—Clark Gable most fascinating in the sort of part he should always play—bad man who can still hold ones sympathy Leslie Howard, has a small part. Be sure to see this again. (Star).

Central Revivals.

Two plays to be revived. Ronald Colman in his finest characterisation—"Arrowsmith"—and Chester Morris in "Corsair." Then we are promised a lovely lady from Wien, Tala Birell, and Victor Varconi in "The Doomed Battalion." The photography in this one is perfection and is authentic. Coming also—a film that will be remembered, with a magnificent cast. "The Lost Squadron"—Richard Dix, Erich von Stroheim, Bob Armstrong, Joel McCrea, Dorothy Jordan, and Mary Astor. Highly exciting story written by Dick Grace, famous stunt aviator for the Movies. There is a ring of truth in this, and should prove a novelty when it comes to the Central shortly. Put this on your "must see" list. (Central).

"Aren't We All?"

"Lonely" Comedy "Aren't We All?" Paramount British with Gertrude Lawrence in the role I saw played by Marie Lohr, who, looking matchingly, now plays a small part in the film. The Lawrence girl shines divinely, and on the stage she is beautiful—but photographically—big disappointment. I never was an admirer of Owen Nares, and he is too much of the fool in this very British talkie. Hugh Wakefield may amuse you, but the man who steals the picture, as far as I am concerned, is Harold Huth—who we liked in "The Outsider." I wonder why they have altered the ending sentence—rather spoilt it. Emily Fitzroy who was for a long time in Hollywood films. The part of her clergyman husband was weakly and amateurishly played. Needless to say, the show is perfectly produced, and I would not miss it. (King's).

"Innocents of Chicago."

In "Innocents of Chicago" Henry Kendall (liked here in "Flying Fool") does a neat job as an Englishman who inherits a Chicago racket, and thinks it is a milk business. Bernard Nedell who played here many years ago, in "Frawley" company the part of the Irish stoker in "Anna Christie"—is one of the leading lights in British films, besides being a most successful actor-manager. His wife Olive Blakeney is now acting in Ian Hay's latest, and is a big favourite on the London stage. Nedell does well in this film, and it may seem like a parody, but there is a tremendous amount of truth in this gangster play, shortly to be seen at the Queen's.

King's Attractions.

It is quite a while since I saw the pre-view of "Heavenly Night," but Evelyn Laye and John Boles sing charmingly for us, and how Leon Errol did make me laugh. Lilyan Tashman as the 'bad beauty' from Budapest, is her usual grand self, beautiful and convincing. Advised. Then shortly the Four Marx brothers in "Horse Feathers," and the Chevalier-Macdonald film "Love Me To-night"—with Sally Eilers and James Dunn to follow in "Dance Team." All due at the King's.

"Arsene Lupin."

The conjunction of the Barrymore brothers makes "Arsene Lupin" interesting, but the exploits of the handsome French Duke who baffled the police is too old-fashioned as compared with the machine-gun technique of modern criminals. John gives a humorous conception of the Duke, Lionel—is Lionel—the nemesis detective. Karen Morley supplies the love interest. Taken all round the acting is uniformly good, but I just did not like it—that is all (Queen's).

"To-morrow and To-morrow." If you have strayed, as I did, from the path of thinking Ruth Chatterton the first Lady of the screen, you will come right back, as I did—to your old admiration of the star when you see her in "To-morrow and To-morrow." She has not done anything so good since "Anybody's Woman." Both Robert Ames and Paul Lukas excel. More of this later, but it is an outstanding picture from every standpoint. Due very shortly at the King's.

"The Redheaded Woman." Fortunately we are to see very soon Jean Harlow in the Box-office riot "The Redheaded Woman." Chester Morris, Lewis Stone, Una Merkel in well-chosen cast, with production from the M.G.M. studio up to standard. Boy what a story and how that Harlow girl will surprise us with her acting—at last so I have heard. (Queen's).

"June Moon." Jack Oakie has never been seen to better advantage than as the sap song-writer who tries to break into Tin-pan Alley, Broadway. In "June Moon" he certainly handed me plenty of laughs, but it is not the sort of humor that would appeal to everyone. I know Tin-pan Alley, so that may account for the fact that I thoroughly enjoyed the show. How I like that Frances Dee girl too and the Monde Jette MacCloy with Wynne Gibson. Is this too small a role? Yes, and that wicked player Harry Akst, but we had too little from him. Recommended.

Following this, we have a great favourite of mine, Roland Young. Lily Damita, Thelma Todd and Charles Ruggles in "This is the Night"—see it again. "Wayward" with Nancy Carroll, Richard Arlen and Pauline Frederick. A weak story—and then Arlen doing great stuff, with Jack Oakie in a sympathetic role—in "Sky Bride." If you have not seen this be sure to go to the Oriental.

HOLLYWOOD NOTES.

Gossip from Here and There.

Carol Lombard has been lent to Columbia, and will be opposite Pat O'Brien in "Virtue," and will also do "No More Orchids."

May Beatty has a role in "Vanity Street." This much-travelled actress must be getting on in years now, but she was always a grand little artist.

Charles Laughton the famous English actor will be starred by Paramount, and yet his first picture "Between the Devil and the Deep" has only just been released, an unusual occurrence. This actor made his name on Broadway in the play which will be shortly produced here by the Local Dramatic Society—"Payment Deferred." I admit to being a rabid Laughton "fan," after seeing him in his first film. Thousands of extras are happy in Hollywood. After many years of semi-starvation, two of the greatest productions have started work—"Cavalcade" and "The Sign of the Cross."

Many Britons have returned to England now that the outlook for home-made seems rosy. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Quartermaine (Mary Forbes), Claud Allister, George K. Arthur, who is appearing in a new Musical film by Lehar with Owen Nares and Bobby Hale. Leslie Fenton with his wife Anne Dvorak. By the bye, she was only in receipt of a paltry £50 a week from Howard Hughes—and England will pay her £200—Speaks well for the future, BUT—let us hope they don't overstep the mark, and ruin the industry with enormous salaries.

The British censor gave a good title to "Night Court"—they called it "Justice for Sale," but they amused me with the recently shown March—Sydney film—by titling it—"Merrily we go to H." Sir Gerald du Maurier will act in the B. I. P. "The Case of Lady Camber." Lilyan Tashman expected to be starred by Paramount, and was NOT did not have her contract renewed, so she is free-lancing again, no need to worry Lil makes FAR more money doing this, and goes from film to film.

Mr. Martin Cave the celebrated singer who will render a selection of popular songs at the Hong Kong Hotel Roof Garden on Saturday night.

Douglas Shearer, Norma's brother who is Chief Recording Engineer at M. G. M. is responsible for the new invention used in "Strange Interlude." For the first time we hear the unspoken thoughts of people.

Maurice Chevalier returns to work in December on an original story by Gouveneur Morris. "Pied Piper of Paris."

Erich von Stroheim returns to direction and will direct James Dunn and Marian Nixon in "Walking down Broadway."

Mary Pickford's greatest success, "Tess of the Storm Country" will be made by Janet Gaynor.

M. G. M. purchased "White Sister." Do you remember Colman and Lillian Gish?—Helen Hayes will now play the lead, but the hero? I don't know yet.

"Red Dust" co-starring Jean Harlow and Clark Gable will not yet go into production owing to the recent bereavement of Mrs. Paul Bern.

Peninsula Attraction.

No need to complain that we can't "Go Places" now with Hugs and Josephine, dancing divinely at the Peninsula, and Mr. Cave singing a la Al Jolson at the Hong Kong Hotel. I was not present at the private audition given for critics, but I do think Mr. Cave unwise to brag of the fact that he was second in the competition

MYSTERY OF U-BOAT LOST DURING WAR.

Supposed To Have Sailed With Ghost Crew.

WEIRD THEORY EXPLODED.

(By Hector Bywater.)

New light can now be shed on one of the most baffling sea mysteries of the war—the fate of the German submarine U 31, which vanished without trace in January, 1915.

It has been positively asserted by German writers, including Cmdr. Ernst Hasagren in his "Log of a U-Boat Commander," that this boat, six months after her disappearance, stranded off the East Coast of England, and when examined was found to be intact, with her entire crew dead at her posts.

The theory was that officers and men had first been sufficed by an excess of oxygen, and then asphyxiated by the gradual accumulation of carbonic acid gas. Hence arose the legend of a ghostly submarine, drifting, about the North Sea, with a crew of dead men.

I am informed by the Admiralty that no German submarine drifted ashore on the English coast in the circumstances described, and that an official communication to this effect has been made to the German Navy Office.

Singular Facts.

Nevertheless, the facts of the case are singular enough to merit notice. It is now established that on Friday, Jan. 13, 1915, the submarine U 22, U 31, and U 32 left the Ems on a scouting expedition into the North Sea. Day and date were ominous according to sailors' superstition, which the course of events seemed to justify.

Certainly the cruise ended in disaster. Two days out U 22 sighted, torpedoed, and destroyed with all hands what was thought to be a British submarine, but which proved, in fact, to be the German boat U 7. This was by no means the only occasion on which a U-boat mistook a consort for an enemy submarine and sent it to the bottom.

Soon after leaving the Ems U 32 ran into a gale of hurricane force, and for nine days was in extreme danger. She owed her escape to the fine seamanship of her commanding officer and the discipline and endurance of her crew. Eventually she limped back to port badly damaged.

Of U 31 nothing more was heard, although to my knowledge, the British Naval Intelligence Service made the most exhaustive inquiries as to her fate. How the story originated of this boat having drifted about the North Sea for months with a dead crew on board it is hard to say, but until quite recently this romance was accepted as truth by the German naval authorities.

Probably Hit Mine.

The facts, however, appear to be as follows, the fate of the boat having been traced as the result of a recent exchange of information between the British and German naval authorities. When U 31 left the Ems she was on her maiden voyage. She had orders to cruise off Smith Knoll to observe enemy shipping, but probably she never reached this point.

Her course from the Ems must have taken her very close to the great German minefield known as the "Strassburg-Sperre," and it is surmised that, in consequence of faulty navigation or the strong sweep of the tides, she blundered into this death-trap and was blown up. Since none of her crew survived, and no wreckage was ever found, U 31 must be listed with the scores of other submarines which were "purloined veranicht."

Such is the version now officially accepted in Germany.

An important step towards the nationalisation of the Spanish railways was taken by the Government on September 30 by the adoption of a bill providing that the Government shall bring all railway companies under its control by having the right to have adequate representation on the board of directors.

These Government representatives will be invested with very far-reaching powers, while the banks, which in future will be represented by men on these bodies.

ROUND HONG KONG'S CINEMA THEATRES

MAIL REVIEW

"THE FRIGHTENED LADY"—QUEEN'S THEATRE.

The late Mr. Edgar Wallace's rattling thriller, "The Case of the Frightened Lady," adapted to the screen by British Lion-Gainsborough, and distributed by Ideal Films Ltd., is the current attraction at the Queen's Theatre, Gordon Harker, who did good work as a convict in "Escape" is splendid in the leading role which he shares with Cathleen Nesbitt and Norman McKinnel.

Although affianced to the young Lord Lebanon, Ailsa Crane is frightened within the walls of Marks Priory, and wants to leave. Two murders are committed, and there is a secret that the strong-willed dowager Lady Lebanon hides from the world. The secret is finally unfolded by Scotland Yard, but at great cost.

Emlyn Williams and Belle Chrysalis also have prominent roles. Recommended!

MAIL REVIEW

"MY SIN"—KING'S THEATRE

The redemption of two human delinquents is told in Fox's thrilling social drama "My Sin," starring Fredric March and Tallulah Bankhead, the current attraction at the King's Theatre. March who reached the pinnacle of screen fame with his dual portrayal in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," does a creditable piece of acting.

Opening with Panama settings, the film depicts March, once a famous lawyer, as a shabby and unshaven wreck. But he resents being called a beggar. He meets Miss Bankhead, who portrays Carlotta. A murder occurs, and she is accused of the crime. March defends her and is successful. Self-defence is proved by the defence counsel.

The supporting cast includes Harry Davenport, Scott Kolk, Anne Sutherland, and Margaret Adams. George Abbott directed the film. Recommended!

MAIL REVIEW

"CORSAIR"—CENTRAL THEATRE.

Chester Morris beats run-runners at their own game in Roland West's thriller, "Corsair," which is now showing at the Central Theatre.

It is the story of an American college footballer who becomes a bond salesman. Discovering the spuriousness of the certificates he is selling, he resigns from his job and takes up bootlegging and finally "hijacking".

He is ably supported by Thelma Todd and Gay Seabrook.

MAIL REVIEW

"CITY STREETS"—TAI PING THEATRE.

"City Streets" now showing at the Tai Ping Theatre, has a thrilling gangster story as its background, and is full of action. Gary Cooper has the leading role, and is well supported by Sylvia Sydney and Paul Lukas.

"JUNE MOON"—ORIENTAL THEATRE.

The inimitable comedian, Jack Oakie, who was prominent in "Touchdown", is the leading player in Paramount's picture "June Moon" the current attraction at the Oriental Theatre.

It is a story of Tin Pan Alley, and is presented in a truly humorous vein. Oakie, as the newcomer to Broadway, is splendid and replenishes the audience with much laughter.

Frances Dee, Wynne Gibson, June McLoey, and Harry Akst appear in the supporting cast. Recommended!

The Wonderful Years.

It is impossible in these days to recapture the feelings which a century ago the peoples of Europe experienced in the presence of epidemic disease. These feelings had existed as a heritage from immemorial time. His- torians are agreed that the Black Death effected upon the mind of Europe a shock not less severe than had been effected upon her body. The Great Plague laid a chill of fear upon London and England, and that chill was felt again during each of the nine- teenth century. In addition to these exceptional scourges there were afflictions which remained as a permanent danger, for ex- ample, smallpox, typhoid fever, and typhus fever; "a mother's son is never her own," ran the proverb, "till he has had the smallpox." Scarcely less dread- ed than smallpox was "consump- tion," which stealthily, year after year, carried away young man- hood, so that the families which escaped its visitations were few. But the dread inspired by dis- ease itself was less, probably, than that which was awakened by any suggestion of treatment by surgery. The hospitals a hundred years ago were reputed the gateways of death, because few who entered them came out alive. Even the smallest wounds were followed, invariably, by the dreaded "would fever," against which every art of the phy- sician or surgeon was unavailing. Because of this fever a com- pound fracture was a sentence of doom. From cradle to old age, indeed, human life was placed under constant threat. The in- fant death-rate was three times as high as it is now. The ex- pectation of life at birth was more than twenty years less than the present expectation. Nor was escape of any sort possible. The tropics were ravaged by diseases more terrible than those of temperate climates. Names of fear, such as "Yellow Jack," preserve their memory, which is enshrined further in such geo- graphical terms as "The White Man's Grave." Lord Dawson of Penn exaggerated nothing, cer- tainly, when, in the course of his Presidential Address to the Brit- ish Medical Association, he de- scribed this age of disease as an age of shrinking and helpless re- signation. The fear which was ever present was expressed in an attitude of mind of which the noblest manifestations were the heroic courage and the selfless trust in Providence. The which expressed itself also in riotous living, in cruelty, and in debauchery. Fear is the mother of cowards as well as of heroes. Fear which cannot be overcome tends to wear down the resist- ance and enterprise of men, and so, in the end, to sap the founda- tions of their faith. It was from such fear, as Lord Dawson in- sisted, using a note of sober triumph, that the pioneers and masters of modern medical science delivered the world. They were a small band, labouring, for the most part, in obscurity and with no other inspiration than the love of truth which dominat- ed every one of them. Far from trying, as has been stupidly charged against them, to op- pose the fallible reason of man to the will of Providence, they were, for the most part, men of a deep and abiding faith in Providence. In the middle of the hosts of death they dared, alone of their age, to draw the sword of reason with which, for his salvation, man has been endowed by God. Pasteur, Lister, and Manson were men of humble piety and devout Christianity. They are the rocks upon which the hole structure of modern knowledge is built, though the name of Jenner must never be forgotten. Lord Dawson placed Jenner in a position by himself, and rightly so. For it was vac- cination which broke the evil spell of helplessness. As soon as its beneficent power became known a wave of new hope spread over Europe. Napoleon uttered the famous prophecy that the populations of the European States would be doubled. To-day, after the fulfilment of that prop- hcy, the hosts of disease are in full retreat along the whole line of battle. British Judges still carry their posies of flowers to the bench of the Central Criminal Court, but the disease from which the posies were supposed to give protection has disappeared. Typhus fever has been abolished; typhoid fever has be- come rare; tuberculosis is declining; while potent remedies for dip- theria, tetanus, diabetes, myxo- edema, and pernicious anaemia are available. In the sphere of preventive therapeutics are the new methods against rickets, dental caries, beri-beri, and scurvy. Surgery is now safe as well as painless. The modern surgeon operates without fear, and the hospitals have become symbols, in the public mind, of charity in its most blessed and most beneficent form. In the tropics progress is not less en- couraging. Thanks to the work of Manson, Ross, Bruce, Leish- man, and many others the great fevers are now passing under control. Plague and cholera are no longer wild beasts free to roam the world. Malaria is yielding ground every year; yellow fever has been abolished from in- fested areas. Lord Dawson dwelt specially on this work and on the labours of Manson. A British is entitled to that satisfaction, for tropical medicine is one of the greatest of Britain's gifts to mankind. Not the least valuable of the services rendered by Lord Dawson in his inspiring review was his insistence on the danger of setting too great store on achievements in the realm of pure science. These achievements attain their full value in the practice of medicine. Like all other human achievement, they must be measured in terms of service rendered. There is no disparagement here of the pur- suit of truth for its own sake. That pursuit belongs to the very essence of service. But let the doctor remember where his work is set. Let him, while accepting gratefully all the help which the knowledge of others can give him, hold fast to his own know- ledge, exalt it in his daily prac- tice, and make of it the vehicle of his enthusiasm, his philan- thropy, and his faith.

News In Brief.

One case of diphtheria was noti- fied to the Health authorities on Wednesday.

The Rev. C. I. Blanchett, of the Church Missionary Society, Canton, left the Colony for Shanghai on the P. & O. s.s. Corfu yesterday.

Knocked down by a public motor car at the junction of Pokfulam Road and Second Street, a Chinese man, Ng Kwong, 56, sustained in- juries which necessitated his re- moval to hospital.

A Police report to-day stated that on September 7 last, the body of a Chinese female baby, 2 years old, was found in Gilman Street. Extensive scalds were found on the body and these had been treat- ed with a dressing of Picric Acid solution. The Police require in- formation in the case.

A bazaar and fete to raise funds for the Children's Hospital and Or- phanage and other charitable work under the auspices of the Precious Blood Convent, will be held at the Convent building, Yuen Chow Street, Shumshui, at 4.30 p.m. to- day when Mrs. W. T. Southorn will perform the opening ceremony.

The Y's Men's Club held their weekly meeting at Lane, Crawford's Restaurant yesterday during which Dr. K. C. Yeo, Chairman of the Chinese Medical Association, Hong Kong, gave a talk about his visit to the Shanghai Y's Men's Club re- cently while he was attending the Chinese Medical Conference in Shanghai. Dr. F. I. Tsang also gave a short talk on his trip to Shanghai and Hangchow. The meeting was presided by Mr. Tan Eng Hooi, President of the Club, and nearly 30 members were pre- sent.

Personal Pars.

Mr. C. J. Chancellor, Far Eastern manager of Reuters, arrived in the Colony this morning from the North, on board the s.s. Naldera.

The Hon. Mr. J. J. Paterson was among the passengers returning to the Colony from Shanghai on board the s.s. Naldera, which berthed at daylight to-day.

INTERESTING DEBATE AT Y.M.C.A.

A keen debate resulted from the motion proposed at the Y.M.C.A. last night "That the House of Com- mons be Abolished."

It was the first debate in the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. Literary and Debating Society of the 1932-33 season.

Dr. E. L. Allen proposed the motion, Mr. S. A. Gray seconding, the opposition being led by Mr. D. J. S. Crozier and Mr. J. J. Ferguson.

At the conclusion of the debate, a vote was taken, resulting in 10 voting for, and 32 against, the motion.

TWO INJURED AT TAIKOO YARDS.

Two minor accidents occurred at the Tai Koo Dockyard yesterday.

Pit Yien, 42, injured his head and foot, and was sent to the Government Civil Hospital for treatment.

Engaged in painting on the Zi Kagan, a painter, Hung Chan, 28, of Tai Koo Street, fell from a staging, sustaining injuries to his arm and thigh, and was re- moved to the Government Civil Hospital.

Horror And Beauty Of Inner China

Dean Of Canterbury Writes On Journey

THE STRUGGLE TO TIBET

The Dean of Canterbury, who has been engaged on relief work in China, contributes the fol- lowing account of a journey which he made across the coun- try into Kansu and over the Tibetan border.

By The Dean Of Canterbury.

Travel in Western China to-day is difficult and dangerous. Few undertake it; few are permitted to do so. One of the few is Major Todd, the Chief Engineer of the China International Famine Re- lief Commission, a man with vast engineering construction to his credit in China, whose white cross flag can travel where none others penetrate. He took me with him through Shansi, Shensi, and Kansu to Tibet, studying the associated problems of poverty, famine, bandits, and communications, a rough and hazardous journey of some 1,600 miles.

Our vehicle was a Dodge truck, laden with ropes, picks, spades, poles, and planks, for a wild ride lies before any car in the west of China. Tolerable stretches of mud road may radiate from this town or that, but the trucks, con- necting them traverse deserts, ravines, river beds, and gradients ascending nearly one in three over mountains 6,000ft., 8,000ft., or even 10,000 ft. high. Petrol consumption averages a gallon to five miles. We worked from dawn until after dusk and slept beneath the open sky.

Men, mules, and oxen helped us over the worst obstacles. The consequences of such means of communication are: Internal poverty, primitive trade, slender cohesion with the central Govern- ment, feudal banditry, and highway robbery. Military satraps flourish, the world counts for little, and when famine comes peasant farmers die like flies. Conditions naturally vary; some Governors and Generals are enlightened men, others the reverse, but all are handicapped.

The Ancient Way

Our journey proper began at Tungkwang, the present railroad, 700 miles from the coast, a city striding strategically across the an- cient roadway leading towards Cen- tral Asia. Its massive medieval walls and gates and the soldiers guarding them, who demanded our papers, cut off Western China from the East. Beyond this point the traveller is not welcomed. Major Todd's pass generally ensured our passage, but soldiers were often ob- tuse, and several times we had trouble, once being forced to wait all night before gaining admittance to a city.

A rough but tolerable mud road, 90 miles in length, connects Tung- kwan and Sian. Rain is rare in the west and mud roads provide ex- cellent going if well drained, hard- tamped, and protected against na- tive carts. The old cart-track ran for awhile beside us and pre- sented a contrast. Struggling through its ruts 10in. deep a cart was drawn by a couple of mules. Our road a coolie hauled a rubber- tired ricksha. We compared the weights. The man on the new road rivalled the beasts on the old. Mules eat fodder. Replace them by men, and foodstuffs increase; prices also drop. Add the motor-car and prices will drop still further: wheat drop- ped 10 per cent. when the railway reached Tung-kwan.

Fields of Poppy.

On our left the great mountain range descending from Tibet drops abruptly to the plain from summits of 6,000ft. Trees fringe the crests and clear streams fall down the sides. Slender poplars throw off showers of emerald leaves from silver stems; and in alternating strips beneath them grain and poppy flourish side by side. Immense fields of poppies bloom as flourishingly as tulips in the Netherlands. They grow where wheat is needed—and they yield three or four times the profit of wheat. That is why they grow there: opium weighs light for value, and is easily transported. The general poverty, the weight of taxation, and the distance from Nanking make the temptation to grow opium irre- sistible. Local authorities, sure of both tax and the encourage in di- ction and pocketing of a fine pay-sufficient homage to the law. The remedy is in adequate communica- tions, which will lengthen the reach of Nanking and remove the economic causes of opium growth. A roadless Europe with its only cen- tral Government in London might expect lawless behaviour in its out- posts.

Fields of Death.

So poppies are allowed to grow. I saw thousands of acres in bloom. The results, even the local results, are disastrous. My last night in a Shensi village, amid the glowing fields, remains a haunting memory: huddled forms, reeling in an open-fronted temple; bent yellow faces over tiny lamps; the innkeeper's wife, on a couch in a hovel, dozing herself to death.

Sian is a lovely city, once the capital of China, and bound up with its earliest history. Standing nobly, girt by 16 miles of massive walls, it houses some of China's greatest treasures: memorial tablets grandly sculptured, the Nesto- rian tablet among them; bas-re- lief horses of the Tang dynasty; and a marble bowl exquisitely chased with lotus lilies—to my mind China's most lovely single posses- sion. The streets are clean and orderly and thoroughly Chinese. Clear streams, descending on either side of the city, are spanned by bridges of the Tang dynasty. The city can boast some motor-cars, as can others still farther west, de- spite the trouble of transit. They are American cars, the American in- dustry straining every nerve to gain a footing. Right in Tibet I found an expedition of adventurous young men with wireless and film-taking equipment sent out by an American motor firm. Around the cities themselves motoring is compara- tively easy. It should be even easier for English than for American cars in a place where streets are narrow and petrol dear. The American name is known everywhere. When Major Todd said he was American he was greeted with a smile. When I said I was British it was differ- ent—there was no hostility, but the word meant nothing.

Great Philanthropy.

I attribute this to three things, and I must confess that America deserves all the credit she gets in China. America is doing great philanthropic work; her merchants show enterprise and penetrate the country eagerly; she spends her Boxer indemnity on granting scho- larships to Chinese students in America; and they return Ameri- canized. Thus, it was an English missionary who made the first call for philanthropic aid. Findlay An- drews, who rescued Captain Baker on the Yangtze, told me that he had been through floods, famines, and earthquakes, and four times was in the hands of bandits; but would go through any of these experiences again rather than face again such a drought as in Kansu, where the Chinese Government estimated that 2,000,000 had died. He saw the dead and dying on the roadside, and stood before a crowd with wheat supplies enough only to save a few. He had to choose who should live. He could scarcely speak for months afterwards. He begged for roads; and the Ameri- cans responded.

The roads took us West. On the way we visited the Weipai Irriga- tion Scheme. Outside Sian stands the tumulus of the Emperor who built the Great Wall. The China of his day knew drought and famine, and in 240 B.C. he utilized the King River, 20 miles west of Sian, for a huge irrigation scheme. In course of time the channels silted and the river fell below the intake. Successive dynasties— Sung, Yuan, Ming—renewed the work, tapping the river higher and higher up its course. Then irri- gation practically ceased. The ap- palling drought of 1928-1930 caused the China International Relief Commission to co-operate with the Shensi Government, contributing some $25,000 towards the cost of $50,000 scheme. Major Todd has thrown a dam across the King River and tunnelled the mountain. This water will be led by a three- mile canal to irrigate 70,000 acres.

President Attacks Opposing Chiefs

"Vain Allurements" Of Democrat Platform

OUTLINES HIS POLICIES

"False prophets, false leaders, and betrayers" were some of the epithets hurled at his opponents by President Hoover in his address to the American Bar Association in Washington when replying to recent criticisms of the Republican Party's administration by Democratic chiefs. The Democrats were "offering the American people worthless theories and making promises that could not be fulfilled," the President told his hearers.

The President defended the Administration of which he has been the head for the last four years. Far from desiring "an over-centralisation of power," he said, he favoured a wider assumption of the obligations by the States. Too many problems have been thrown in the Federal lap. On the question of crime, the President declared that it was purely a local issue. He adjured, however, reform of judicial procedure to cope with modern conditions.

In the meantime there are indications of sweeping changes in the personnel of the House of Representatives before the election day. Already over forty representatives of the two parties have been eliminated either by defeat or by announcement of non-candidacy. Control of the House by the Democrats is considered to be still likely.

The President defended the economic programme of the Administration and of the Republican party as sane and sound. He attacked bitterly the "false prophets of the millennium," who were offering the American people worthless theories and making promises that could not be fulfilled.

Often in the history of the world we find that the peoples' interests have been betrayed by these false leaders offering unworkable, disastrous theories," he said. "That menace is doubled by the fact that these vain allurements are to-day offered to our harassed people by men of public reputation in the Hawley, Republican, Ore., who field of economic even by men in public life. These allurements have undoubtedly been offered under the pressure of public clamour."

The President pointed out that people in distress were often too eager to accept promises, remedies and alleged remedies regardless of their soundness. Some of the remedies that have been offered during the existing depression, he said, were definitely dangerous and threatened good government. Some of the changes that have been demanded during the present campaign would destroy personal liberty and sweep away the security, the savings, the income built up by centuries of experience.

Less Centralisation. The Republican Administration has often been accused of bringing about a centralisation of government that menaces the rights of the separate states and takes from them some of the functions guaranteed by the Constitution.

The President, however, told the lawyers to-night that he favoured less centralisation and a wider assumption of obligations by the states. The States have in late years, he said, thrown too many of their problems in the lap of the Federal Government. He also pointed to the fact that where the duties of the Federal and State governments are identical, the states have depended upon the Federal government for actual performance.

This, he said, was especially true in certain branches of law enforcement. Crime of any kind, he contended, is purely a local problem.

Reviewing the history of some of the more famous examples that have reached the course, in recent years, the President declared that judicial procedure should be reformed to cope with modern conditions. Many minor cases are being tried in Federal Courts when they should be tried in State courts.

The legal profession should purge itself of "unworthy members," the President continued. Here, he referred to the findings of various committees of the effect that many attorneys not only seek a fair trial for the accused but actually aid in

BRITAIN WILL WIN CANADA'S BIG MARKETS

America Stands To Lose $570,000,000.

EFFECT OF PREFERENCE.

London, To-day.

While the effects of the imperial trade agreement invoked in Canada are still speculative, British commercial observers express the opinion that British trade with Canada will be increased by $70,000,000 annually, mostly at the expense of the United States.

American officials are inclined to regard this as excessive but admit that British trade may eventually be benefited to that extent.

The detailed tariff changes, in line with the agreements reached in August at the Empire Trade Conference at Ottawa, were introduced in the Canadian House of Commons on October 12. They increase the margin of preference in favour of England on 223 of 262 items and put 157 items on the free list, as compared to 81 prior to the revision.

This Trade Treaty and the others approved at the end of the Conference between England and the Dominions must be approved by the parliaments of the countries involved before becoming effective, but the approval has been given already by most of the Dominions and Colonies, and Britain's action is only awaiting the re-opening of Parliament, which takes place to-morrow.

HORROR AND BEAUTY OF INNER CHINA.

Signs of Renaissance

When we arrived the work neared completion. To stand on the high, wide banks and gaze down was to be impressed. Thousands of coolies worked far below us, naked in the hot sunshine. Their small wage of 3d. or 5d. a day enables the work to the done at the cost and saves the workers from starvation.

While I was near Weipai I received an English newspaper from Peking. In a three-column editorial under the title "A New Famine Relief Scandal" this irrigation scheme and that at Saratoli in Mongolia, were coupled with opium growth. I had just visited both schemes: no water was flowing in either, no poppies sown, and, by contract with Government, opium was in both places barred.

Proceeding through Kansu westwards to Lanchow, we traversed, as Marco Polo did six centuries ago, one of the world's most ancient ways, winding between the deep canyons of the Loess country. The Kansu farmers are a sturdy, handsome race, cheerful and friendly. The men shave their foreheads and grow the queue; the women and children, more frequently than elsewhere, have bound-up feet. Sixty per cent. of the population dwell in dugout houses. The firm Loess earth makes this possible. It also makes road-building cheap; and it was a fine experience after our struggles to speed in top gear up some 1,600ft. on Major Todd's new graded road from a river bed to the plateau.

The worst places are being tackled first. The greatest of all obstacles, the Liupan Pass, lay ahead. In Peking we had learned that the engineers' camp at its base had been raided by bandits, riddled with bullets, and looted. Todd immediately decided that we must sleep there. He also requested, and secured, compensation from the local Government.

On each stage of our journey we were accompanied by a local missionary. I marvelled at the influence of these men and at their administrative ability in road-building. On a Yangtze steamer a missionary is off his beat: here he is on it and shines. The Swedish-American missionary who was to accompany us over the pass was exceptionally experienced. He was calm in danger. He had faced three revolutions in four years. Only a day or two before, on his way to inspect the work in this section, terrified peasants had met and besought him to return. "The bandits are robbing a merchant convoy round the bend," he said, and his companion fired their guns into the air; they never fire at men.

The bandits thought soldiers were arriving and fled. One man's arm had been broken; the rest were saved and $20,000 worth of goods rescued. With this new commission we journeyed to the Liupan Pass. (To be Concluded To-morrow.)

The Archbishop of Canterbury stated he had rarely known any subject which aroused in the churches such unanimity and depth of conviction. They recognised fully the practical difficulties with which ministers were faced and wished to assure them of support of the great volume of Christian public opinion, which felt a growing concern at the international situation, and the present position of the Disarmament Conference.

The Archbishop said they felt a moral obligation that the promise given by Allied Powers after the war should be fulfilled and they thought it would be morally wrong at this stage in the world's history to acquiesce in anything less than wide and general reduction of armaments which bring no sort of security for peace but rather a constant menace of war.

Restriction Urged. They hoped there might be a resolute endeavour to restrict and, in some cases, even forbid the use of five categories of obviously aggressive weapons. They would also give enthusiastic support to maintenance of as close co-operation as possible with the United States.

"Britain was the natural link between Europe and America and if in the anxious times ahead such co-operation could be maintained, it would have an enormous effect upon world opinion. They believed the British Government, by reason of the armament reductions which Britain had already effected by its known sympathy to France and by its declared desire to be fair and just to Germany, was in a position to give a really effective lead and that the best elements in Europe would welcome such a lead in their present perplexity and confusion."

Sir John's Reply. After other members of the deputation had spoken, the Foreign Secretary expressed appreciation and welcomed all the pressure they could bring to strengthen the government's hands. Regarding the recent British note to Germany he said it was not written to urge a legal proposition but was designed to put aside technical and legal arguments as not being the real ground to explore. What could be done in future was not to be restricted by dwelling simply upon what Britain had already achieved since the War, in the name of disarmament. On the other hand, it would be a great injustice to Britain, and would actually hinder the acceptance by their own people of desire to end war if Britain was only great country in world that had made any reductions in armaments. That fact, combined with the existing responsibility for police and protective action in all parts of the world, must be borne in mind.

Seek Will to Peace. The Prime Minister, while also welcoming pressure on the moral aspects of disarmament, said the peace-maker had not only to consider the moral issues but also all possibilities of situation. Government wished to do the big thing and since February had hung on tenaciously to the desire to create not merely some state of disarmament but the more difficult thing; namely, a state of will to peace.

He wished to be head of a Government which was not merely a signatory document about the reduction of armaments but which left peace in Europe and in the world. They had done a great work with America and it would be something like a moral catastrophe which would separate Britain from the United States. They were striving to establish similar relations in Europe, he said.—Reuter and British Wireless Service.

CHINESE ARTISTS IN RECITAL

Large Audience At First Concert.

There was a large audience at the Helena May Institute yesterday for the first concert of the season, and the committee was commended for introducing an innovation by opening their series with a programme provided by All-Chinese Artists.

Miss Amelia Lee's piano solos were superb, since she brings keen intelligence to bear on everything she plays. Her selections covered a wide field, for she chose a Toccata and Fugue by Bach. The Etude in E Minor, Prelude in C Sharp Minor, and Valse in A Flat by Chopin; and finished in particularly happy mood with the fascinating "Danse Negre" of Cyril Scott and Rachmaninoff's brilliant "Polichinelle."

Mr. Li Chor-chi is always a favourite. He sang two operatic numbers and his songs by Massenet and Vidal were very warmly received. As an encore he gave "April" by Tosti. Miss Stella and Miss Helen Ho were likewise warm favourites and are very skilful in adapting their dances to the small Helena May stage. They made a charming picture in their diaphanous dresses of snowy gauze and satin, as they danced a Pas-de-Deux to a Chopin Valse.

POLICE RECREATION CLUB REPORT.

Sporting Activities During Past Year.

The following have been the full results of the Police Recreation Club's sporting activities during the year ending September 30, 1932, as laid out in their annual report:

Cricket.

The Police played ten league matches of which they won 4, lost 4, and drew 2. Fifteen friendly games were played of which 7 were won, 5 lost, and 3 drawn. T. H. Hunter won both batting and bowling averages for the season.

Tennis.

Though concluding the "C" League season in a low position, the Police, who were making their debut in the local league, gained valuable experience which should stand them in good stead next summer.

CLUB SHOULD BEAT KOWLOON.

Lincolns Travel To King's Park.

BORDERERS v. SAINTS.

South China, potential champions of the premier soccer league are again without a figure to-morrow. They last played two weeks ago, when they defeated the Royal Artillery by two clear goals. The Police, who defeated the Navy last Saturday, and the Chinese Athletic who lost to the Lincolns on Sunday, are also having an off-day.

The Lincolns, who were not engaged last Saturday, will travel to King's Park, where they should easily account for the lowly-placed Recreio. Barber, the Lincolns centre-half who has been selected for the Interport trial, and who has fully recovered from his injury, sustained in the match against the Police, will prove a great obstacle to the Recreio forwards, and should be able to keep his forwards well fed with passes, especially Higgins, who is in good shooting form at the moment. Last Saturday, the Recreio lost to the Artillery 6-2 after drawing first blood. The Club-Kowloon match at the Valley always provides the bustling type of football. Owing to a split in their ranks Kowloon have, however, been considerably weakened this season, and with the absence of G. Hedley, the Interporter, their defence has shaped very shakily. Everything points to a Club win, although Howe is again a doubtful starter; but it is understood that Williams, the well-known Yokohama forward, will be played in the inside right position.

Spectators should be treated to a hard fought game on the Kowloon F.C. ground, where the Royal Artillery and the Royal Navy will be in opposition. The Navy showed good promise a fortnight ago when they beat St. Joseph's, but, fielding a weak eleven last Saturday, they were defeated by the Police. The Artillery, on present form, should emerge victors.

The Borderers, who occupy first place in the league table, should have little difficulty in accounting for St. Joseph's, whom they meet on the latter's ground, though the re-arranged College line-up has shown considerable improvement. The following is to-morrow's fixture card:

First Division.

St. Joseph's v. Borderers on St. Joseph's ground.
Recreio v. Lincolns at King's Park.

Second Division.

Navy v. Artillery at K.F.C.
Club v. Kowloon on Club ground.
Club v. Eastern on Club ground.
St. Joseph's v. Kowloon on Joseph's ground.
South China v. Tsung Tsin at Caroline Hill.
Navy v. Borderers at K. F. C.
Artillery v. Athletic at Sookun-poo.

Third Division.

Radio v. R. A. F. on Athletic's ground.
Recreio v. South China at King's Park.
Engineers v. Athletic at Sookun-poo.
Signals v. Lincolns at Chatham Road.
Taikoo v. St. Joseph's on Athletic's ground.
Borderers v. University on Navy ground.

Billiards:—The Police entered the Semi-Final Round of the Soldiers' Club Tournament, and were only narrowly beaten by "A" Company, South Wales Borderers.

Bowls:—Though failing to win a League game on their own ground the Police broke their long sequence of misfortunes when they beat the Kowloon Dockers. This was their first win in three seasons, and, encouraged by this success, they went on to record two further wins to avoid the wooden spoon for the premier league.

Football:—The Police experienced a very mediocre season on the First Division, being greatly handicapped by the absence of L. McCreavy who left for Home on account of ill-health. On November 21 the Police team visited Canton and were beaten by the Canton Force by 4 goals to 1 before a record crowd.

The Police Recreation Club welcomed 28 new members during the past year, thus swelling their membership to 247.

HONG KONG SHOULD WIN TENNIS INTERPORT BY ODD MATCH

OMAR PRAISED AT BOWLS DINNER

DOGGED DETERMINATION RESPONSIBLE FOR WIN

PRENTICE CUP HISTORY

The victorious Interport Lawn Bowls team, were feted last night at a dinner given by the Hong Kong Lawn Bowls Association. The guests of the evening were Messrs. B. W. Bradbury, A. O. Brawn, J. C. Brown, G. L. Buchanan, H. Hampton, R. S. Nichol and U. M. Omar.

"Our Interport Bowlers," was given by Mr. A. L. Shields, vice president, who said he esteemed it a great honour to be in the chair and to express congratulations to their President and the Hong Kong Interport Lawn Bowls team on their victory in Shanghai.

Lawn Bowlers he ventured to state were mostly modest men who played the game for the game's sake.

Since the first Hong Kong Shanghai Interport match in 1918 visiting teams had only been successful on four occasions—twice in Hong Kong and twice in Shanghai, hence their great jubilation when the results came through. They will all appreciate the selection of a visiting team, but selection is influenced by the players who can get away, the greens are all strange, the players are drawn from various Clubs and may have difficulty in getting together, as a team and last but not least there is, especially in the case of the Northern port, the hospitality for which Shanghai is famous—I nearly said notorious.

GREAT SKIP.

In spite of these disadvantages their lads brought back the Cup and a fair freight they had. They had all doubtless read the newspaper accounts of the games and how the "doughty Omar snatched the victory on the last head of the second game. The score in the three matches were:

Shanghai 16 Hong Kong 17
Shanghai 20 Hong Kong 21
Shanghai 13 Hong Kong 27

Those of you who suffer from stage fright will appreciate the steadiness of a skip who with his second wood in the last head when the opponents are lying—draws the winning shot to win the rubber.

This was Omar's third visit to Shanghai. You may say third time is lucky but I say dogged determination did it.

Johnny Brown has been to Shanghai twice and each time the team has won.

Hampton and Buchanan both played in the interport match with Shanghai last year in Hong Kong. Bradbury, Omar's stalwart henchman on the Craigiepower team who is a canny exponent of the gentle art of wood trundling fully justified his selection and was I believe the darling of the gallery and much photographed by the movie camera men who recorded the different games. I hear we will be able to see these photos reproduced shortly in Hong Kong.

PRESIDENT-MANAGER.

Nichol made his debut in big games and has I am told that great asset, the right temperament and is worthy of the serious attention of future selection committees.

The team were fortunate in having as their manager their worthy President, Mr. Brawn, who acted as guide, counsellor and friend. No mean exponent of the game himself he gave his undivided attention to the selection and placing of his men. He watched his flock by day and if you will excuse the mixing of the metaphor, tucked them into beds at night at a reasonable hour.

Ragging the management is a favourite pastime in Hong Kong but on this occasion the team pulled well together with their Captain and the result justified the enthusiastic gathering that greases.

"I won't make further reference to the Shanghai games as we hope to hear about them from the players but it is not inopportune to mention the history of these Interport Matches with Shanghai," continued Mr. Shield.

"TUG OF WAR" TEAM.

Interport games have been played every year since 1918 when the "Big Four," described by Shanghai as a "Tug-of-War" team went to the Northern Port. The players were W. Russell, Dave Harvey, Charlie Bond and Inspector Gerard. Shanghai had won eight games and lost seven. Home teams had lost twice in Hong Kong and twice in Shanghai.

It must be seen to that next year Hong Kong brings the score to eight matches to eight. The Interport Cup was presented by the late Mr. John Prentice of the Shanghai Dock Co. in 1923 and they hoped to keep it by them next year—and then some.

Mr. Brawn I hope will give us some inside information about the Interport games and the friendly games. Last Saturday he denied the soft impeachment that he returned from Shanghai with a naughty look at least he said he had not been very naughty but would tell us more about it tonight.

I have been to Shanghai as skipper of an interport team of Yachtsmen. I don't know whether Bowlers have more rugged constitutions than boat sailors but I do know that Shanghai hospitality was overwhelming. Their starworts kept their ends up both on and off the greens and at the interport dinner gave a good contribution to the speeches and singing. In conclusion Mr. Shields said "Gentlemen, let us give honour where honour is due, charge your glasses and drink with me the toast of the evening, our Victorious Interport Lawn Bowls Team."

MR. BRAWN REPLIES.

Replying to the toast, Mr. A. O. Brawn said:

When I was responding to the toast of the Hong Kong bowlers in the Shanghai Club two or three weeks ago, I told Shanghai that I had a confession to make—I had not earthly right to be at their festive board. I said I was a gate-crasher. I had bluffed Hong Kong into sending me up as team manager. Now from the nice things so many have said about me I am beginning to think it was not a bluff and that Hong Kong knows me better than I man on the Craigiepower team who is a canny exponent of the gentle art of wood trundling fully justified his selection and was I believe the darling of the gallery and much photographed by the movie camera men who recorded the different games. I hear we will be able to see these photos reproduced shortly in Hong Kong.

Anyhow I reached Shanghai and took with me McWhirter's books as propaganda; some may call it intimidation. I took with me a hoodoo and a mascot. The hoodoo was Omar—he'd been twice before and lost—but you know the story of Robert Bruce and the spider. The mascot was Johnny Brown—he'd been up before and won.

ARGYLLS BEAT LINCOLNS IN SWIMMING CONTEST.

Winner For Every Event.

The Argylls defeated the Lincolns by 17 points in a swimming contest in the V.E.C. bath yesterday. The Argylls lost only 24 points as against their opponents' 41.

The Argylls supplied the winner for every one of the five individual events, besides carrying off the two remaining relay events.

Football Notes

By Spot Kick

THERE is a movement on foot to send a Chinese soccer eleven up to Shanghai in the near future, and I understand that the Chinese Amateur Athletic Federation have secured the permission of the various Chinese clubs to select whom they please from the clubs participating in the League. A subscription list has already been opened in order to ease the financial necessities of such a trip.

SOUTH CHINA would form the nucleus of the side with Lam Yuk-ying of the Athletic and possibly Li Shek-yau, the Tung Tsin Winger. The last time a Hong Kong Chinese team visited Shanghai the South China team visited Shanghai the South China team were not fully represented, and the team met with only moderate success. The Lincolns, who are making a bold bid for the local champion, defeated the visitors on the Pioneer Field ground during that visit.

THE Interport Selection Committee have taken the bull by the horns and selected three players before the serious Trial games have been scheduled to commence, but why all the hurry? There are several players who might show dazzling form in the Trials, and there is again the possibility of Howe, Strange or Rodger being hurt in the Trials. It might have been a better policy on the part of the selectors had they earmarked these three players and allowed the Trials to be played without the players knowing who were going to be selected. It would certainly have encouraged better play in the Trial games.

THE selection of Howe, the ex-Tientsin Interporter, in view of his recent injuries, is open to criticism. Howe is by no means a fit player, and he is more than likely to be a passenger in the important game should he receive a tap on either his knee or his ankle. Hong Kong cannot afford to take risks of this description, especially in view of the several good centre-forwards we have now at our disposal. Fung King-cheong (South China) and Higgins (Lincolns) to name only two. Howe is undoubtedly a first-class forward, but he has always been one of those unfortunate players who has always come off the field with some injury or other. On his day there is no forward in the Colony to touch him as far as marksmanship goes, but under the circumstances (he was unable to play for the Club against the Borderers last Saturday) the selectors are taking a very big risk.

FEW can criticise the selection of Strange and Rodger. Rodger has no equal between the sticks since the retirement of Clarke, and Strange is a full back of proven abilities. On a heavy Shanghai ground Strange would be invaluable in defence, and should Mullane (Borderers) be selected, the pair would be almost up to the standard of the Colony's best pair of back—Bishop and Wynne, who did good service in 1926.

DEVONSHIRE BEAT SUFFOLK IN CHINA FLEET LEAGUE.

4 Goals to 1 at Valley.

In the China Fleet league football match played at Happy Valley yesterday, H.M.S. Devonshire beat H.M.S. Suffolk by 4 goals to one. Bland (3) and Smith (1) scored for the winners, while Peacock scored the only goal for the Suffolk.

THE Interport Trial eleven for Sunday is definitely a strong one, though I should have preferred Bliss (Kowloon) to Tong Kwan, (South China) at half back, and Ip Pak-wah instead of Duncan (Borderers) in the forward line. I understand, however, that the speedy South China winger was unavailable for the match. Bliss is a player of the robust type with a good sense of anticipation and excellent ball control. He, moreover, gets rid of the ball as soon as he can, which can hardly be said of Tong Kwan. Another player who is uncertain of his place is Cheng Su-hong (South China), who is being tried out in B. Goan's (Recreio) position. Although he will receive excellent support in partnership with Dornier (Club), the Chinese player will have to reveal his very best form if he is to displace his Portuguese rival.

THE several injuries sustained on Saturday have healed satisfactorily. Illott, who had to be carried off the field in the game between the Police and the Navy owing to a collision with Williams, has speedily recovered from his shaking up and will in all probability be between the posts for the Navy against the Artillery tomorrow. Milne, a newcomer to the Club junior team, has also made a rapid recovery from the knee injury he sustained against Kowloon on Saturday, but it is extremely doubtful whether he will be seen to-morrow, as he is still limping slightly.

TO-DAY'S RUGBY.

Racing Notes

By Ajax

THE Hong Kong Jockey Club has this week lost one of its most popular and most familiar figures. I refer of course to the resignation of Mr. R. M. Dyer, C.B.E. from the post of manager of the Hong Kong and Whampoa Dock Company. Mr. Dyer in addition to being a Steward of the Club, is a prominent owner and has had many successes both with his own ponies and those which race under the name of Messrs. Beith and Dyer. In his long connection with the Club, Mr. Dyer has been a Steward since 1921, and since the departure of Mr. C. Gordon Mackie for Home on long leave, he acted for several months as Chairman of the Stewards, and has for some years been in charge of the scales.

THE YEAR 1926 brought the first classic win for the Dyer and Beith stable, when Total Abstinence romped home an easy winner in the Valley Stakes. The following year Tangle ridden by Mr. L. Reidy annexed the Wong Nei Cheong Stakes for the same stable, while Loch Fyne, another famous Dyer and Beith pony, ran second in the same race in 1928, with Mr. "Johnny" Heard up. Another of the stable's Loch ponies, Loch Aish, won the Valley Stakes in 1929, with the same jockey in the saddle. Although the stable cannot claim the credit of having won the Champion Stakes or the Derby, they have had second place in each race. In 1925, Grey Dawn, ridden by Mr. Thompson, came second in the Derby while Grey Morn came in third in the Champions in 1925 and second in 1926.

SATURDAY'S meeting at the Valley, the Twelfth Extra, will see Mr. L. Dunbar's old favourite out again in the Sixth Aggregate Stakes, and the event should produce a thrilling race, with such classic ponies as Sacko, Bag & Baggage, and Cyclamen Bay out. Glenegles still leads the points table with 12 marks to date, but Bag and Baggage only needs one more win to equal this figure. If Glenegles runs and secures either first, second or third place, the Aggregate Stakes will go to the Dunbar stable, as to-morrow's race is the last of the series.

THERE was a good showing at the gallops at the Valley this morning, and if the ponies are as fit as they look, one can confidently expect great things at to-morrow's meeting. Glenegles, I learn is not running, though no reasons have been given, so the simple thing for Mr. Reidy's Bag and Baggage, which is bursting fit. Two other ponies, entered in the event, made a pretty good showing when out over half a mile this morning. Liberty Bay was one, with Mr. Leo Frost in the saddle, and from the manner in which he covered the distance, in 1 minute 02 seconds, he looks a sure thing for a place. Sacko, too, looked remarkably fit, and returned 1 min. 03 seconds, with Mr. G. A. Harman up.

MR. E. O. BUTLER was galloping a few of his mounts which he will ride to-morrow, and Chateau Bay impressed me as a probable winner. Although he did not appear to be fully extended he clocked half a mile in 1 min. 02 seconds, and appeared pretty fresh after it. The Bay works in this season's griffin and will be carrying 140 lbs. He is certainly a pony to watch. Workable Stag and White Jade Stag were two other mounts taken for a gallop by Mr. Butler this morning. Both ponies which are running to-morrow, returned a creditable time of 1 minute 03 seconds for the half mile.

MR. CHAN TING-SOON's former champion pony, Apollo, who still holds three Hong Kong records, is now repeating his history in Tientsin. At the Autumn meeting held by the Northern club, the pony set up a new record for six furlongs, the time being 1 minute 28 seconds, which is 4/5 seconds slower than the pony's best time in Hong Kong. All the local records held by Apollo were set up in the early months of last year. The pony is now owned by Mr. Layton of Tientsin.

MR. A. J. P. HEARD, the well known local jockey arrived back from Shanghai on the 13. Nalders this morning after a brief stay in the North.

Suffolk) and A. B. Ankett (H.M.S. Suffolk).

Pte. Coase (G. W. Borderers), failed to complete the course.

At the conclusion of the race, Mrs. W. T. Southern distributed the prizes for the championship events held under the auspices of the Victoria Recreation Club during the season.

THE match between Tsui and Wade should provide an interesting encounter and the result will hinge on the form shown by Tsui in the first set. The odds are, however, heavily against Tsui, who will be confronted by one of the most experienced and steady players in the Far East. Tsui can, however, be relied upon to extend Wade to his utmost and may even bring off the unexpected.

The Rumjahn cousins will commence favourites in the last match of the series. Their perfect understanding against a new combination should give them the verdict over Lum and Cheng.

The recent form displayed by E. C. Fincher suggests that the Hong Kong captain has regained his old standard of play, and he will also have the advantage of playing on his own courts against Cheng. From what I have seen of the northerner in the preliminary knock-out, I am greatly impressed, but Fincher should just manage to win. It will be a tense struggle in which stam will have a great bearing on the result. Cheng will be confronted by a difference of light, to which he has not yet become fully accustomed, and a much faster court to those he has been playing on in Shanghai.

Cheng has been coached by Gordon Lum, and it may be said that his play is modelled on that of the well-known northerner. He, however, gets more power into his service than Lum, using his height to advantage. Cheng hits the ball at the top of his reach and attempts little spin while serving, and is consistently faster than Paul Kong in this department.

Cheng has a stronger backhand than "forehand," using a flat racket for all his shots. At the net he is a steady rather than a brilliant volleyer and his overhead work might be described in the same manner. His chief assets are his speed on the court and a natural anticipation which rarely fails him.

WADE'S SERVICE. The match between Wade and Tsui should provide a struggle between experience and youth with the issue in doubt at all periods of the encounter. Wade, who is captaining the Shanghai team, has developed a worrying heavily-armed service which comes over comparatively fast and which will tend to force Tsui off the court. Tsui's lobbing abilities should, however, stand him in good stead in the event of Wade's service being in good trim.

Wade is not a pretty player to watch. He possesses a very awkward style, but he is very fast over the court, and his anticipation is excellent. He is yet another supporter of flat-racket strokes; his forehand being his main asset. He is consistently good at the net and overhead without being particularly brilliant, and can be termed a hard worker throughout his matches, whether he is winning or losing.

ALTERNATE FORM. The final match of the series should provide the "hit-bit" of the series. In Lum and Cheng, Shanghai have a hard-hitting pair who may trouble the local champions to no small extent. Having watched them together, however, I have come to the conclusion that they will be seldom seen in brilliant form as a pair, and that both players will strike good form alternately. The issue of the match will largely depend upon whether Lum will be able to give Cheng the necessary confidence when the latter shows any signs of falling off. Lum's service is not a display of power, but it is a display of accuracy and perfect understanding of the game, and it is this which greatly undermines the play of the Shanghai pair and will give Hong Kong the narrow victory which it deserves.

DECIDING DOUBLES ENCOUNTER

TSUI WAI PUI MAY BEAT SHANGHAI CAPTAIN

GUY CHENG'S PROMISE

(By Ace.)

THOUGH THE SELECTION OF THE HONG KONG INTERPORT TENNIS TEAM CAUSED CONSIDERABLE CONTROVERSY, I FEEL SURE THAT THEY HAVE EVERY CHANCE OF WINNING AGAINST THE SHANGHAI TEAM OVER THE WEEK-END. FROM WHAT I HAVE SEEN OF THE SHANGHAI PLAYERS I SHOULD SAY THAT THE ISSUE WILL DEPEND UPON THE DOUBLES MATCH BETWEEN THE RUMJAHN COUSINS AND GORDON LUM AND GUY CHENG. SHOULD THIS BE THE CASE I HAVE NO HESITATION IN SAYING THAT THE LOCAL PAIR WILL GIVE HONG KONG THE VICTORY BY THE ODD MATCH IN FIVE.

Fincher should defeat Guy Cheng in the first match of the series, but I fear Shanghai will level the scores in the doubles match between the Lo brothers and Wade and Canavaro. On Sunday Sirdar Rumjahn, the Colony champion, should be able to defeat Lum in order to give Hong Kong the lead again.

The match between Tsui and Wade should provide an interesting encounter and the result will hinge on the form shown by Tsui in the first set. The odds are, however, heavily against Tsui, who will be confronted by one of the most experienced and steady players in the Far East. Tsui can, however, be relied upon to extend Wade to his utmost and may even bring off the unexpected.

A WHOLE WEEK'S NEWSPAPERS IN ONE.

Two European women, one an American, Miss Edith C. Boynton, the other a pretty, little person, were imprisoned in a cabin of the Hong Kong steamer Helikon, while she lay for two days in the hands of pirates off Hie Che Chin Bay on October 14.

They were in desperate straits, when pirates seized the vessel, en route from Hong Kong to Saigon.

No casualties occurred during the seizure of the vessel, with the exception of one Chinese deck passenger, who jumped overboard in a frenzy when the vessel was seized and was drowned. A full story is given in the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL.

Pleading guilty through Mr. Leo d'Almada, Sr., to a charge of common assault, reduced from one of criminal intimidation against Mr. Raymond O'Shea, editor of "The Critic," Pastor Manuel de la Sala was convicted by Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Magistracy on October 15, and bound over in a personal surety for $250 to be of good behaviour for one year.

His Worship administered a warning to the accused, saying:—"You are a very hot-tempered young man. It may be due to past experiences or to your temperament. You are liable to get into very very serious trouble. I want you to understand that. You are a young man now and there is no reason why you should not pull yourself together." The case is fully reported in the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL.

The delayed prize distribution of the Diocesan Girls' School, Kowloon, was held on October 15, the Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall, C.M.G., LL.D., who has just recovered from a slight indisposition, distributing the scholarships and prizes.

The school hall was filled to capacity with parents, pupils, and old girls of the D.G.S., while supporting the Headmistress, Miss H. D. Sawyer, on the stage were the Director of Education, Mr. G. P. de Martin, M.B.E., the Rev. W. Walton Rogers, Vicar of St. Andrew's Church, Professor L. Forster, the Hon. Dr. and Mrs. Kotewall, Mr. S. M. Churn, and others.

The proceedings began with the singing of the school hymn, after which the Headmistress addressed the gathering. The function is reported in the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL.

October 15, a red letter day in this history of the Hong Kong Lawn Bowls Association, witnessed the ringing down of the curtain on the 1932 season, when the Aitkenhead Shield was competed for between Kowloon and Hong Kong on the Kowloon Bowling Club green. Kowloon won by 39 shots, making this their fourth victory since 1928. Hong Kong won last year.

No less than 96 local lawn bowlers took part in the game, including His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government (the Hon. Mr. W. T. Southern, C.M.G.) who skipped Hong Kong's No. 3 rink against a rink skipped by Mr. W. S. Drake, of the K.B.G.C. A detailed report is given in the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL.

At Causeway Bay on October 14, the All-American polo team, representing Shanghai, once more won the inter-port polo match. They defeated Hong Kong by seven goals to five.

Brilliant shots were made in the six chukkas. J. H. Keswick played a splendid game for Hong Kong while Judge C. S. Franklin, captain of the team, and Don Burdick shared the honours in the Shanghai side.

A large crowd was present, His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government, The Hon. Mr. W. T. Southern and Mrs. Southern, His Excellency Major-General J. W. Sandilands, the Hon. Dr. S. W. Tao, Sir Shou-son Chow and Mrs. C. S. Franklin, wife of the Shanghai captain, who sat with the official party, being some of the notables present. Tea was later served in tents erected behind the pavilion. A full report is published in the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL.

MR. FUNG DENIES SIGNING PETITION.

Appeal Papers Ready.

Mr. Fung Siu-wah denies the report that he signed the petition being prepared for presentation to the Governor asking clemency for Cheng Kwok-yau, who is now under sentence of death.

Papers in connection with the appeal to the Privy Council have been completed and it is understood that they are being forwarded to-day to London.

FUKIEN REQUIRES SUBSIDIES.

Reorganisation Cannot Be Achieved.

Mr. Choong Wai-kong, the Superintendent of Customs in Fukien Province, arrived here from Canton yesterday, en route to Fukien where he will take up his duties after a long holiday.

Referring to the financial position of the Fukien Government, Mr. Choong expressed the opinion that unless subsidies were forthcoming from the Canton and Central Governments, the proposed reorganisation of the Province would be an impossibility.

treatment of their wounds and sores, which their late captives had assisted in curing during their captivity.

"We Are Delighted."

London, To-day. "We are most delighted to hear the news," said Mrs. Pawley interviewed by Reuter at her residence at Gerrard's Cross, Bucks. "It is a great relief that it is all over and we hope Mrs. Pawley won't suffer any ill effects."—Reuter.

Suppression of Banditry.

London, To-day. The release of Mrs. Pawley and Mr. C. Corkran is to-day the feature story in the London press, and leaders echo public relief and express general admiration of the captives' cheerful defiance in the face of real dangers, and also acknowledge the unremitting assistance of the Japanese forces.

The Times says that no ordered Government will be indifferent to the fate of its subjects who are carried off while pursuing their lawful avocations but the financial success of the gang in question can hardly fail to be an incentive to bandits everywhere.

The Daily Telegraph writes in the same vein, and adds that the only real remedy is an efficient Government and a strong gendarmerie.

The Morning Post, taking the opportunity to discuss the general state of Manchuria, says that doubtless Japan will do her utmost to assist the local Government in repressing banditry and establishing law and order, since only on that basis can Japan justify her action reaping its benefits. These destinies take time to develop and in the meantime it would be foolish in the western world to show hostility to the only power capable of maintaining civilisation in the Far East.

It suggests that the League should follow its own precedents and give Japan the mandate to supervise the local administration of Manchukuo in the interests of peace.—Reuter.

Desperate Effort.

Tokyo, To-day. A message from Mukden states that Mrs. Pawley and Mr. Corkran were released as a result of the desperate efforts of Captain Kawahito, of the Kwantung army gendarmerie, and were escorted to Newchwang from Panhsan.

FRESH WINDS.

The weather report issued from the Royal Observatory to-day states:—

The anticyclone now lies over S. China to the south of the Yangtze Valley; a depression is situated to the north of Shantung. A fresh monsoon will prevail over the Northern China Sea.

Forecast:—N.E. winds, fresh, fair.

Mrs. Pawley is fatigued and has a severe feverish cold, and is expected to be confined to hospital for some time. Her illness, combined with the persuasion of the Japanese authorities, moved the bandit chieftain to release the captives, as Mrs. Pawley's death might have brought down swift doom upon the brigands' head.—Reuter.

Early Report.

London, To-day. The release was yesterday effected of Mrs. Pawley, 19-year-old English woman, and Mr. Charles Corkran, son of Major-General Sir Charles and Lady Corkran, who were captured by bandits eight weeks ago on the Race Course at Newchwang, Manchuria.

Both arrived at Panhsan, north of Newchwang and are reported well.

Japanese, Manchukuo and British authorities have participated in the long-drawn out negotiations with the elusive bandits and considerable anxiety had been felt regarding the health and safety of the captives. Their relatives in England were overjoyed to-day at news of their release.—British Wireless Service.

STIFF SENTENCE FOR THIEF.

Discharged Servant Stole Typewriters.

Chan Hung, a dismissed employee of the Chinese Club, Bank of Canton Building pleaded guilty before Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court this morning to charges concerning the theft of two Underwood typewriters from the club. Mr. Lee Hon Kam, of the Club, is the complainant.

Detective-Sergeant Allen, prosecuting, said that the first typewriter was stolen on September 8, the thief entering the premises by an open verandah door. Nothing more was heard or seen of the machine. On September 13, a week later, Mr. Lee purchased a new typewriter for $160. On the morning of September 19, the typewriter was missing.

His Worship sentenced the accused to seven months' goal.
